Brukman

"Control Obrero" – "La Fabrica Es Nuestra" – "Obreras Sin Patron"

Since December 2001, the Brukman textile factory in Argentina has been the focus of confrontation between a strong workers' movement and the forces of capital. Following attempts to close the factory, it was occupied by the workers and production continued in the face of an increasingly violent response from their former bosses, backed by government forces. This series of short films follows the turbulent fortunes of this revolution.

We are lucky enough to have one of the filmmakers available to answer questions after the screening.
