Total Oil AGM Demonstration - Friday 12th at 12.30pm

The regime in Burma recently launched a new military offensive against civilians from the Karen ethnic minority in Burma. More than 11,000 people have been forced from their homes and are hiding in the jungle with no food or medical supplies. Civilians, including children, have been shot, tortured, mutilated and even beheaded. Total is the largest and last significant European investor in Burma. Total Oil's Yadana gas project is believed to earn the regime between $200m to $450m a year. In addition to the huge revenues Total's project provides the regime, the companies presence in Burma is influencing French, European Union and British foreign policy on Burma, as France vetoes effective EU sanctions in order to protect Total. Demonstration at Total's Head Office, 33 Cavendish Square, London W1G 0PW. Nearest tube is Oxford Circus. www.burmacampaign.org.uk
