

PROTEST FOR CHOICE!

1-2pm 16 July 2011
Market Square Cambridge

- Under proposed new legislation women seeking abortion are to receive "independent" counselling.
- With this legislation pro-choice organizations which provide abortions will not be allowed to offer this counselling. This means that in all likelihood the "independent" counselling would be provided by groups which openly oppose abortion, and which have a history of providing women with medically incorrect information in order to frighten them.
- These changes have been quietly tacked onto the Health and Social Care bill by MPs Nadine Dorries and Frank Field, and could be undemocratically pushed through without even a vote in the House of Commons.

- Called by Feminist Action Cambridge, <http://groupspaces.com/FeministActionCambridge>. Come dressed in pink (if you want to).
